Chamber of Commerce Annual Banquet, January 23

Free Music and Hall Secured For Coming Presidential Dance

Ukiahans are responding generously to the appeal of the committees in charge of the various phases of the coming birthday ball for the President.

Efforts to secure as much free service as possible, that there be more money for use in infantile paralysis relief, has resulted in free use of the grammar school gym, donation of the janitor's service, free music, and free screen advertising at the State theatre.

These were assured Thursday, and prospects are good for other outbursts of generosity from other directions.

Three orchestras have volunteered their services: Kelly's, Jerry's and Gillings. These organizations will furnish full bands and will take their turns at playing, each being allotted an equal share of the time. Members of the orchestras will be admitted to the dancing free.

Other committees are going ahead with their allotted tasks and everything indicates that this dance will be a financial success and an outstanding social affair.

The fact that 70% of the proceeds of the ball will be retained for use locally has given the affair a personal slant that appeals to all alike, and there will be 100% support given in the purchase of tickets.

Plantation Minstrels Play Under Parent-Teacher Sponsorship

Under the auspices of the Mendo-Lake Council of the P.-T. A. the Northwestern Plantation Minstrels, presented by Camp Northwestern CCC, will appear at the Ukiah high school auditorium Friday evening, January 25, beginning at 8:15, with a lengthy program, replete with features which hark back to the days of Weber & Field, and before.

In this connection Mrs. Donald Macmillan of Hopland, president of the Mendo-Lake council, announces that two prizes will be given in competition for ticket sales for the show. The first prize is $5, and is to be awarded to the P.-T. A. member selling the most tickets. The second prize is $2.50, and is to be given the individual student for the greatest number sold.

The adult admission is 35c, with graduated prices for high and grammar school pupils. The show is for the benefit of Parent-Teacher extension work in the county.

Hop Growers In Two Day Hectic Meeting

Fred Dickey, manager of the Bank of America, Warren Brown, Oscar Sanford, Andrew Hoefer, Frank Cunningham, George Reiners, Ernest and Vernon Ruddick, and Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Crawford, were among Mendocino folks, interested in the hop meeting at Santa Rosa Wednesday, who attended from here, when the growers, dealers and brewers met in open sessions to hear the proposed AAA marketing agreement for the Pacific coast hop industry discussed.

Two hundred and fifty leaders of the industry from California, Oregon, Washington, and the eastern coast crowded the supervisors' chambers at the courthouse for the morning, afternoon and evening sessions.

It is said that early it became apparent that the hop growers were faced with a bitter struggle from large brokers attempting to prevent the agreement from going into effect.

Brewers, it appeared, leaned more favorably toward the agreement than the dealers.

Two amendments were considered vitally important among the seven offered by growers' committees at the sessions Wednesday.

One would extend authority of the agreement over the entire United States instead of merely California.

PERKINS DECLINES FOREST SITUATION

Supervisor Will Not Divide His Time Between State and County Jobs

Mendocino county, and the coast section particularly, are to be congratulated that County Supervisor Charles R. Perkins has decided in favor of the home folks, as between accepting a situation on the state park board, tendered him some weeks ago by Governor Merriam, and his job as supervisor.

After due consideration, Mr. Perkins elects to stay with the home folks and devote his time and energies to the affairs of his county office and to his many personal interests within the county.

The coast section, where Mr. Perkins hails from, is especially fortunate that he will continue to attend to their interests. The county, as a whole is lucky that we are not to lose Mr. Perkins from the board of supervisors.

The state park system has lost an opportunity to secure a lot of ability and energy, that would have proven an invaluable asset to the system, and Mr. Perkins has turned down a situation which offered large opportunities for his abilities, and remuneration of considerable proportions.

WEBBER MAY WRESTLE

John Webber, heavyweight wrestling threat of Paul Poulos' school, may have an opportunity to show his iron clamp before Santa Rosa audiences in the new wrestling series being promoted in that city by Jerry Monohan, veteran wrestler and promoter. Webber has been inactive since his last show before San Francisco audiences, some months ago. There seems to be a lack of heavyweights who care to sample the Potter Valley boy's wares, down by the bay.

BILL AGNEW INJURED

Bill Agnew, employe of the Mendocino State hospital, is spending a few days vacation at his home at the corner of Grove and Spring streets, while recuperating from a severely lacerated hand, injured last week, while engaged at his duties. Mr. and Mrs. Agnew are former residents of Mendocino city. Mr. Agnew was engaged in the lumber business there several years ago.

ASSESSED $80 FINE

Justice of the Peace Woodruff of Laytonville assessed an $80 fine against Edwin Richardson of Eureka, accused of defrauding the owners of the Empire Auto Court of Laytonville of $150. Unable to pay, Richardson is serving time in the county jail. Deputy Sheriff Wayne Crawford went to Eureka last Thursday and brought Richardson back.

A FEW HAVE MUMPS

In his monthly report to the city council, last Wednesday evening, Dr. J. H. Hansen, city health officer, stated that there were 8 or 10 cases of mumps in the city, but that otherwise all is well; in fact the health of the city is better than usual, judging by the attendance in the schools, which is the best in three years, at this season of the year.

PROSPECTIVE JURORS

Names of 400 residents of the county will be selected to serve as the 1935 jury panel. This order was made by Superior Judge Held last Friday morning, and calls for 200 less names than has been the practice in past years, the result of a new ruling introduced by Judge Held in regards to jury service.

TAKES WASHINGTON JOB

Jack Douglas, attendant at the Mendocino State hospital, has taken a leave of absence and gone to Mason City, Washington, to accept a situation as assistant superintendent of a construction job with the Big Six company. He left, by the way of the stage route, last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Hotskin of Willits were in Ukiah Wednesday on a trip which combined business and pleasure.

DECLINES BERTH

SUPERVISOR PERKINS
A press of personal business matters, and his present county job, has compelled the determination to decline as inspector of the state park system.

County Board Finds Third District Shy Of Funds For Work

The board of supervisors, in session the first of the week, found it necessary to "borrow" $1,500 for use in the Third district to enable the new supervisor, Duane Bittenbender, to carry on until such time as funds for that district become available through the regular channels.

The board found that all available funds for the Willits district had been contracted for in work done, or in the process of completion. Supervisor Rupe, however, had kept within his budget, but there remained nothing in the way of funds with which his successor could do business, and it was necessary for the board to perform the trick of pulling the money from the hat.

Mr. Bittenbender has a lot of work mapped out for his district, which he intends to go ahead with, without delay.

K. P.'s and Sisters Prepare to Install

Preparations are now going on for the annual installation of officers of the local Knights of Pythias, and Pythian Sisters, which will take place in the Odd Fellows hall, Friday evening, January 25, and will be a joint affair, followed by the annual banquet.

In the past, these affairs have been of more than ordinary note in Ukiah, and this year will be no exception and is expected to draw liberally from neighboring lodges. The banquet itself, will provide all the usual bountiful prerequisites, the major item being roast turkey.

SENTENCE DETERMINED

The board of prison terms and pardons, on January 4, fixed the term of Ben Vanderbur, convicted in the Mendocino county Superior court of second degree burglary, at three years. Vandebur was received at San Quentin November 4, 1933. He was convicted of entering the cabin of Frank E. Kenarick on February 22, 1933, and stealing goods valued at about $600. Arraigned in Superior court, he pleaded guilty and asked for probation. Investigations of Probation Officer Frank Knacke disclosed a record that excluded him from the probationary class. Vandebur fled to Winslow, Arizona, following the crime.

DENTIST RECOVERING

Dr. Hatch, Point Arena dentist, who lost two fingers and a thumb in the explosion of a crucible, in which he was vulcanizing teeth, two weeks ago, is reported improving satisfactorily.

FINAL DECREE GIVEN

Mrs. Laura Geary was given her final decree of divorce from John A. Geary in Superior court, January 15. Interlocutory decree was granted January 12, 1934.

HOME-OWNED MEET TO HEAR MERRIAM

Governor Will Address Convention at Santa Rosa, Tuesday, January 22

Charles Rupe, Fred Yates, George Wildberger, Jack Goudge, E. L. Chelli, Mrs Bertha Emery, and Miss Esther Redwine of Ukiah, and Earl Johnson and Harold Rogers of Willits are the delegates named by the Home-Owned Merchants association, at their last meeting, to attend the second convention of Allied Independent Merchants and Home-Owned Businesses in Santa Rosa, January 22-23. Independent retail merchants from all over the state—from Santa Barbara on the coast, Bakersfield in the valley to Eureka north—have pledged their attendance, and these, with wholesalers and manufacturers, as well as a large portion of the 1,875 salesmen who carry "the card," an attendance of over 1,000 seems assured.

An extensive program has been arranged, starting with the presidents' luncheon to be held at 12 o'clock Tuesday. W. D. Hadeler, executive secretary of the California Retail Grocers and Merchants association and chairman of the state board of directors of this organization, will be toastmaster. At 11 a. m. Wednesday, he will also discuss before the convention legislation for "Independent Businesses, Present and Future." A feature of the Tuesday session will be the appearance and address by Governor Frank Merriam.

A special session for traveling salesmen is to be held at 5:00 p. m. Tuesday, January 22, at the Occidental hotel. John Tiedemann will preside at this session, and talks will be given by E. E. Seagrave, sales manager, Paraffine company; Ben F. Halliday, sales manager, Dunham Carrigan & Hayden, and Pen Taylor, division sales manager, Pacific Coast Paper company. These talks will bring the attention of those in attendance to the significance of this activity to the man on the road. Sam Worswick, director of educational activities for the organization and Miss Bernardine Phillips, in charge of cooking school activities, will appear on the program and explain the activities now in progress in their own departments, and proposed activities for the first half of 1935.

Wednesday evening, a banquet and dance will be held. A special program of entertainment is also scheduled for Tuesday evening. All visiting ladies are assured of special attention under the supervision of a special committee, appointed by the Santa Rosa Home-Owned local.

Registration at the convention will consist mainly of independent merchants who are members of the various home-owned units throughout California, representatives of distributing and manufacturing concerns, who are supporting this activity and individual retail members from communities not yet organized. A cordial invitaiton is extended to all other home-owned merchants, who wish to acquaint themselves more thoroughly with the activities of this organization, as well as to representatives of wholesale and manufacturing organizations who sell to independent retail merchants.

AWARD FOR INJURIES

The Industrial Accident commission has awarded David LeBallister a total of $1779 for injuries received while working as a painter for Elmer Woodsworth, contractor. The accident occurred while LeBallister was engaged in painting the Caspar grammar school and the school district was made defendant along with Woodsworth. LeBallister received permanent injuries and was awarded $11 per week for 150 weeks. The sum of $842 is declared payable December 26.

Fire Alarm's Vocal Cords On a Strike; Operation Advised

If you should be awakened tonight, or some other night soon, by the clang of the old fire bell, don't imagine that you are living in the days before 1925 and that you have only dreamed of a siren on the city hall which had squalled in alarm every now and then during the past ten years.

The fact is, the siren has lost its voice, and Fire Chief Anker was before the city fathers last Wednesday night explaining that the services of an expert were necessary to restore its vocal cords to their former vociferousness.

City Electrician Elmer Hopper explained the attack suffered by the siren, in clear and concise technical terms, which left the lay mind completely in the dark, but was sufficiently convincing for the council to order immediate action to repair the damage.

Chief Anker explained that the siren was purchased by the department 10 years ago, and at that time was the last thing in midnight alarms, but that the advanced models were bigger and better and play a greater variety of selections. The newest "coding" models are stream-lined, have knee action, can tell the time of day and what corner the fire is near.

It is Anker's belief that the old squaller holds sufficient trade-in value to afford the city opportunity to bring their fire alarms up to date for a small outlay of cash.

A New Impetus Given Scout Work In Ukiah

The Boy Scouts Court of Honor held in the high school gymnasium last week, at which several members of Ukiah Troop 43 were advanced in rank, and merit badges awarded eight members, has awakened a new interest in the work of Scoutcraft, and affords encouragement to those who have worked to keep the interest alive.

Troop 43 is sponsored by the Ukiah Rotary club and is under control of Scoutmaster C. A. Bernhard and Assistant Scoutmaster George David. Both gentlemen and the sponsors deserve credit for their efforts to keep the movement alive here when interest from other sources has lagged.

RANCH REPORTED SOLD

The extensive holdings of the Greenwood Ranch company, in the Elk district on the coast, have been reported sold to Calvin Beacon of Escondido, San Diego county. Mr. Beacon, who has extensve land interests on the coast, owns 2,000 acres adjoining the Greenwood property, and is said to be highly pleased with his property in that section.

MASONS-STARS DANCE

The tentative date for the Masonic-Order of Eastern Stars dance is given as Saturday, February 23. Kelly's Vagabonds have been engaged to furnish the music, and other details are being looked after by committees appointed for the various tasks.

Prominent Speaker To Address Diners Wednesday Evening

NEW C. C. OFFICERS
E. A. Eversole, president; F. E. Dickey, first vice president; Lilburn Gibson, second vice president; H. F. Suydam, secretary.

Plans are practically complete for the annual dinner of the chamber of commerce, which will be held in the dining room of the Methodist church Wednesday evening, January 23, at 6:30, prompt.

The chamber has been fortunate in obtaining a speaker for the evening. Malcolm Davisson, of the faculty of the University of California, will be here and to make the principal address, and there is in store for those who will attend much good, which can be adapted to the benefit of the city and community.

The committee on arrangements are working hard to prepare a program of entertainment which will furnish enjoyment for the scores who have signified their intentions to be among those present.

The chamber of commerce is entering into a new era of usefulness to the city, and the surrounding territory. There appears to be enlarged opportunities for service just ahead and this annual banquet furnishes an ideal time for those who have never concerned themselves with the activities of the chamber, and those whose interests have lagged, to get into step and help in the work of community betterment.

Reservation for the banquet can be made with W. K. Davis, Bill Dear, Ed Eversole, George Vevoda, or by calling the secretary of the chamber. The price is 75c per plate.

Farmers Club Offers New Slogan as Watch Word For Businesses

In a recent letter, addressed to the members of Ukiah's Home-Owned Merchants association, the Ukiah Farmers' Club, Inc., finds that the old, universal slogan of competition being the life of trade has outlived its usefulness, and has the following to offer, which is worth a lot of consideration:

"You own a business in Ukiah. We do too. The Ukiah branch of Home-Owned business, of which we are all members, has been recently organized.

"The old saying is "Competition is the life of trade," but we believe that this is no longer true, and that this slogan should be changed to read, "Reciprocity is the life of trade."

"We have sixteen persons who find steady employment with us, besides having the loyal support of 137 persons, who are stockholders in our institution.

"Our employees are very enthusiastic about this new organization and we have circularized our stockholders, outlining the aims and objects of the home-owned businesses, urging them to trade at the sign of the Liberty Bell."

Willits News

WILLITS, Jan. 16.—We are having some real winter weather. Saturday night it started snowing, but on account of the ground being wet, most of it melted almost as fast as it fell. Late that night the snow and sleet got a foothold and Sunday morning everything outside wore a thin white coat of snow which melted about midday in exposed places in the valley. All of the surrounding low hills have been white with snow all week, and in the higher mountains the snow is measured by the foot instead of inches. This large amount of snow cools the atmosphere and today we have a mixture of both snow and rain.

Some early lambs have been coming in for several weeks past, but the large crop is not expected until next month. The early lambs are being well cared for in sheds and the loss is negligible.

Five Generations

Five generations of one family had a family reunion in Willits last week. This is a record which is probably unsurpassed in Mendocino county and equaled by only a very few in the nation.

Grandma Princetta Elder came down from her home in Long valley to visit her daughter, Mrs. Bertha Walker, and other generations were Mrs. Walker's son Mark, and her granddaughter, Mrs. Constance Lightfoot, and the latter's infant daughter. There is also one more baby in the fifth generation.

Grandma Elder is one of the few women who are not ashamed of her age and she wants the world to know that she was 91 years of age last September and her prospects are excellent for passing the century mark.

For some years she has been keeping house for her son Charles, a Long valley rancher, without assistance, and she is still able to do all of the housework connected with a ranch home. She has retained all of her faculties in a remarkable manner and the only times she uses glasses is when she reads or sews. She has always led a very active and healthful life and even now can outwalk most women who are only half her age.

Her son Charles is now past three score years and ten and is one of the few old men living in Long valley. He also does all of the ranch work on his place.

Cooking School

Our home-owned stores are sponsoring a cooking school which will be held at Hotel Willits on January 28 and 29. The school will be under the direction of Miss Phillips of San Francisco, and both plain and fancy cooking will be demonstrated. Of course everybody is invited and every woman living in the vicinity is urged to attend. There will be no charges and in addition to this all our home-owned stores are offering prizes, which will be awarded in various ways.

Card Party

Miss Virginia Larson entertained a large party of her young friends at her home last Friday night. The evening was only too quickly spent playing whist, after which refreshments were served. Bettie Akins received the high honors and June Hopper won the booby.

SERA Assignments

Supervisor Duane Bittenbender attended a meeting of the SERA county committee at Ukiah last Friday and laid before them some necessary road projects for the third district, all of which were endorsed by the committee. Bittenbender has asked for 15 men to work on the school grounds; 40 men to complete the Mast hill road work; 30 men for work on the Jackson valley road; 20 men on the Bell Springs road, and 40 men to work the road between Laytonville and Dos Rios. J. B. Dofflemeyer will be here the latter part of the week and register all men who wish work on this new government set-up. He will make his headquarters at the chamber of commerce rooms and any unemployed man, regardless of age, can register. If necessary Mr. Dofflemeyer will also go up to Laytonville and register men for the projects in that section. Men who are unable to register can write to J. B. Dofflemeyer, Ukiah, who has charge of that department.

Rose Cafe

What is still generally known as the Nortonia cafe has changed hands again. This restaurant has had several different names, and been under a seperate management, during the past few years and we all hope the new owners will make a success of the business.

Miss Rosie Pietronave is the new proprietor and will be assisted by her sister, Miss Angie, and brother Louis. The young ladies have had considerable restaurant experience and with their wide acquaintance and genial natures ought to make their new venture a success. The name has been changed to "Rose Cafe" and will cater to the transient business. The booths have been taken out so that the interior is now all in plain view from the sidewalk.

PROGRESS OF WORK GOLDEN GATE SPAN

Survey of Past Week Shows Steps of Advancement on World's Big Bridge

Tower steel will commence to rise from the south pier of the Golden Gate bridge by the middle of February.

This was assured Monday when Chief Engineer Joseph B. Strauss filed his weekly progress report for the board of directors.

Grinding the top surface of the pier, preparatory to setting in place the 38 5-ton steel base plates, upon which the tower will rest, was started on schedule last Wednesday and, according to the chief engineer is expected to be fully completed by next Monday.

This same job on the Marin pier required six weeks to complete, as against the estimated 12 days for the work on the San Francisco pier, the time saving having been effected as the result of modifications and improvements in the grinding machinery.

As soon as the grinding is completed the steel contractor will erect the traveller or creeper truss to be used in tower operations and will set up the huge hoisting engines on the south side of the protective fender. It is estimated that this work, which must be completed before the tower steel can be erected, will take from two to three weeks.

Meanwhile, the Pacific Bridge company has completed the riprap fill around the outer edge of the fender excavation. This fill, which was carried to a height level with the surface of the natural rock formation, is designed to protect the fender from being washed or undermined by the scouring action of the tide. Construction of the fill necessitated the use of rock ranging up to a ton in weight. After these had been dumped into the excavation they were securely embedded in concrete.

The riprap fill and the coating of the protective wood covering of the pier with fire proof paint completed the contract of the Pacific Bridge company, which has been on the job since November 28, 1932, when the preliminary work, preparatory to the construction of the Marin pier, was commenced.

On the San Francisco anchorage, work is continuing according to schedule, while two additional spans of the low viaduct of the Presidio approach road have been paved. In the eastern mills work is proceeding at full speed on material for the San Francisco tower and more than half the required cable wire has been drawn, tested, accepted and stored.

Hi Basketeers Grab Three at Mendocino

By LOREN HUNT

The Ukiahi trio of quitets went on a bender Saturday night, taking three straight from Mendocino, over the coast. The A's showed superior ball as usual, Weatherhead leading the scores with 14 points, followed by Ledeboer with 10. "Buck" Ford, 200-pound guard for the locals, proved to be invaluable at his position, assisting his teammates by repeatedly blocking shots in the air, and recovering the ball from the backboard. Harmon was high point man with 7 points for Mendocino. Final score, 44-11.

The local "B" team took a close decision from the Mendocino B's, the score at half time being 11 to 8 in favor of Mendocino. Kinsler lead the locals with 7 points, Kundert lead the opponents with 13. After another hard-fought half the locals pulled out for a 23-20 victory. The local "C" team took their first victory by a close margin, the score at half time being 8 to 5, with the locals leading, Mayhew and Woodruff dividing high score honors with 7 and 6 points respectively. The final score being 14-10 for the locals.

Saturday night the local A's will tangle with the College of Pacific freshmen at the local gymnasium. This promises to be the best game of the season.

The "B" team will play a local team known as the Ukiah Ramblers.

The price of admission will be 20c for students and 35c for adults.

Grape Men To Meet In Berkeley February 21 To Re-draft Grape Marketing Agreement

FRESNO BACKS PLANS

Support of a marketing agreement for the California wine grape industry to fix minimum prices for the various varieties, establish a prorating shipping schedule and provide for crop surplus was voted at a meeting of growers, vinters and shipper in Fresno last Saturday.

Major points of an argument proposed in 1934, but abandoned because of lack of sufficient time to get it in operation, will be included in the new program.

The tentative agreement will then be sent to Washington for study by AAA legal staff and returned to the growers for approval.

Leaders of the California wine grape industry are busy mapping plans for the work of redrafting the proposed AAA marketing agreement.

AAA officials informed growers of the state, at a series of meetings held in grape growing areas last week, that changes in the pact are necessary, and are aiding in the work of writing these changes into the agreement.

February 21 and 22 have been set as the dates for a conference at Berkeley at which the new agreement will be written.

Representatives from all grape producing areas of the state will be present to aid in outlining the new plan.

Donald R. Rush, agriculture economist from Washington, D. C., speaking recently at Healdsburg, said three principal provisions must be considered in drafting the agreement:

1. Minimum marketing prices.
2. Proration of fresh grape shipments to eastern markets.
3. Surplus pools for control of overproducton.

In discussion of the minimum prices, Rush declared the growers must decide whether they desired one basic minimum price for the entire state or varying minimum prices according to districts and varieties.

A basic statewide minimum price, such as the $17.50 a ton figure specified in the original AAA agreement draft, would have a tendency to force down prices on some good varieties, he warned, and create "false price structures."

If minimum prices were determined instead by the comparative value and demand of the different varieties from different districts, the prices would be "natural" and "workable."

As to prorate of shipments, Rush said that so far the AAA had been unable to decide just how it could be worked out for the grape growers.

"I believe proration is necessary, and would increase the return to the growers," he said, "but some more definite plan must be worked out than contained in the agreement originally submitted."

The AAA is also doubtful of the surplus pool plans provided for in the agreement, claiming they are "not clarified," Rush told the growers.

"Whether assessment of growers by tonnage to buy up the surplus is doubtful as to legality, and it is also doubtful as to whether or not the growers really want such a plan," he declared.

In a test vote taken at the Healdsburg meeting, the majority of growers voted in favor of district rather than state control in any surplus pool plans that may be worked out.

Armand Casassa, president of the Sonoma County Independent Grape Growers association, attended several of the meetings in other parts of the state, and will head the delegation to Berkeley to draft the new agreement.

GLOBE MILLING FOLKS WILL USE NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers, both daily and weekly, throughout the state of California will again play the most important part in advertising the Globe Grain and Milling company's products throughout the coming year.

This decision was made at Los Angeles, following the annual sales conference. Eighty-five salesmen, sales managers and managers representing the six Globe mills, spent two days in reviewing the past year's work and discussing sales and advertising plans for the coming year.

Following the conference, the visitors were taken on a tour of inspection of several of Globe's southern California plants, which included the macaroni factory, the feed mill and the salad and cooking oil plant.

VALLEY GIRL IMPROVES

Miss Frances Howland of Redwood Valley, who has been in the St. Francis hospital, San Francisco, for some weeks, is improving slowly and it will be some time before she will be able to leave. Recently she was removed to the U. C. hospital to be nearer the attending physician, a member of that hospital's staff.

SOCIETY

The Oriental Influence Pervaded Kosmos Meeting

Through the influence of decorative and lighting effect the ladies of the Kosmos club were transported to the land of the orient, when they met on Thursday of last week, and a program entirely in keeping with the motive of the afternoon, made the affair one of the most attractive days the Kosmos ladies have experienced for some time.

In the darkened room floor lamps of exquisite design cast their colorful glow and Japanese lanterns added their influence to the scheme, which was further augmented by the arrangement of Japanese and Chinese wares, and textiles of the wonderful oriental weaving. Mrs. Belle Wilson and Mrs. Yamond York were responsible for this delightful afternoon of artistic and instructive features.

Mrs Ralph Isaacson, who with her husband, Rev. Ralph Isaacson, minister of the Christian church, spent four years of missionary work in Japan, lead the program with "The Women of Japan." Familiar with all phases of her subject, Mrs. Isaacson spoke intimately of the life and customs of the women of the flowery kingdom, and of the characteristics of the Japanese people; their mentality, hospitality, manners and customs.

Musical numbers, all in keeping with the motif, were furnished by Mrs. Margaret Byrnes, Mrs. Ada Romer and Mrs. Fern Davis. Mrs. Davis sang a Chinese lullaby from the opera "East Is East," and the "Poor Butterfly." Mrs. Romer played as a piano solo, "Springtime In China." Mrs. Byrnes selection was vocal and from "The Maid of the Bamboo Screen." She sang "The Bells of Ming Toy."

All who took part in the program were gowned in the formal garb of the east, and many beautiful kimonas, some of exceptionally exquisite design, were in evidence, and worn with an air and grace which would have excited the envy of eastern women, could they have looked in on this lovely scene.

A very interesting 10-minute talk on "The Garden In January" was Mrs. J. Q. White's contribution to the afternoon, and offered many interesting bits of advice and instruction.

The presence of Mrs. Laura Shattuck, president of the club, who has been absent from recent meetings because of illness, was an added happy particular of the afternoon.

The business session was presided over by Mrs. Emily Miller, after which a two-course luncheon was enjoyed by the members and their guests of the day: Mrs. H. O. Cleland, Mrs. Leta Thornton, Mrs. Edna Neuhaus and Mrs. Coral Small.

Bert Hammond, editor of the Willits News, was here on business the first of the week.

Great Pocahontas to Visit Ukiah in March

At the meeting of Kewanna Council, No. 156, Degree of Pocahontas, held in Gambrel hall, Thursday evening of last week new officers were installed and plans made for the coming of the Great Pocahontas Florence Peterson of Los Angeles, whose official visit to the council is scheduled for March 24. It was also decided to send a delegation to Santa Rosa March 11, when she will meet with that council.

At the installation, with Mrs. Katherine Nicholson, retiring Pocahontas, presiding, District Deputy Veda Collier conducted the ritualistic work, assisted by Mrs. Betty Scholl, senior past chief. The following were inducted into their respective offices: Erma Lang, Pocahontas; Frances Crinella, Wenonah; Katherine Nicholson, prophetess; C. W. Heinrich, Powhattan; Minnie Sweeney, keeper of records; Ann Miller, keeper of wampum; Una Richey, musician; Elise Figone, first scout; Louise Baccaglio, second scout; Mary Baccaglio, first runner; Blythe Hicks, second runner; Blythe Hicks, first councilor; Louise Magulas, second councilor; Fred Figone, first warrior; J. R. Figone, second warrior; John Baccaglio, third warrior; Fred Bent, fourth warrior; Mary Gibson, guard of the forest; Fanny Skelly, guard of the tepee; Maud Bake, Betty Scholl and Irma Ryan, members of finance committee.

A number of entertaining features were on the program which followed the initiation, after which refreshments were served by the committee of the evening: Mrs. Ed Alves, Maude Blake, Louise Baccaglio and Blythe Hicks.

I. C. Burke, prominent Boonville ranchman, was in Ukiah on business last Monday.

Superintendent Taylor Speaks to P.-T. A. Members

At no time in the history of education have the schools needed the active interest and cooperation of parents as they do today, County Superintendent J. W. Taylor told members of the Ukiah Parent-Teachers association, in an address delivered to the association at the grammar school auditorium, last week.

Mr. Taylor's address, "Mental Hygiene and Child Welfare," was interesting and instructive and full of food for thought.

He is a fluent and logical speaker, with a complete grasp of his subject and evident sincerity of purpose. He has a pleasing personality and made a very favorable impression in his first public appearance as head of the school system of Mendocino county. He added that under the guidance of the schools of yesterday, children grew up and attained their education amidst a social environment that was comparatively simple and uniform, that today, children are confronted with a social structure which is immeasurably more complex, and in which social adjustment is more difficult. He explained that the dissipation of time and energy and the restlessness and dissatisfaction found among many children, young men and young women are due, in a large measure, to a lack of development of wholesome interests and appreciation for the true values of life. He advocated the study and understanding of mental hygiene and the application of its principles in child training. He asserted that mental hygiene is concerned not only with the treatment of mental disturbances, but is also primarily interested in the prevention of these conditions, with the ultimate purpose of educating normal individuals to make the social adjustments that will enable them to live happy, efficient and well-balanced lives. He recited a number of examples, in which the practical application of mental science may serve as an effective corrective of social and emotional maladjustment of school children. He made the statement that maladjustments among students today are due to our failure to manage the social order and to educate for social living. He charges the school with the responsibility for the solution of the preventive side of the problem by saying that the academic program and instructional process of the school provides the experiences from which come those feelings of success and security or of failure and self-depreciation that condition the child's immediat sense of happiness and well-being, and in many cases probably set habits of confidence or failure for life. He dealt with the preventive possibilities of extra-curricular activities, the contribution of the classroom teacher, and where possible of the usefulness of a supervisor of psychological training.

The speaker concluded by saying that a desirable organization of mental hygiene work presupposes a close cooperation between parent and teacher in order that a unity of purpose may be attained that will give force and effectiveness in a field of work designed to bring out of each child the best in him and to set him aright on a path that will lead him to grow sound in body and mind and to understand and appreciate that which is honest, just, pure and lovely, that he may live in goodfellowship, happily, and abundantly.

A group of beautiful vocal solos were sung by Mrs. Joy Wilson to piano accompaniment by Mrs. Alfred Pioda.

Refreshments were served by a committee composed of Mrs. Margaret Foster, Mrs. H. H. Wise, and Mrs. Elmer Purdy.

Mrs. E. L. Chelli, second vice president, presided at the meeting.

PYTHIAN SISTERS EAT

Ukiah chapter of Pythian Sisters held a hard time party in Odd Fellows' hall, Friday evening of last week, which exemplified the motif of the affair in every detail, from "soup to nuts." Costumes worn by the ladies were picturesque in the extreme, and even the program of entertainment carried the hard-time note. Dainty refreshments of black coffee and sinkers were partaken with a relish which showed the masqueraders had entered into the spirit of the occasion to the final degree.

THE CULTUS CLUB

The next meeting of the Cultus club will be held in the home of Mrs. Jule Weber, with Mrs. Eva Lieurance chairman of the vaudeville program.

Will Appeal Partial Distribution Order

Through his attorneys, Taft & Spurr, E. T. Stoddard has filed notice of appeal to the state Supreme court the order issued in the Superior court of Mendocino county for a partial distribution to W. J. Linstead, Ed Linstead, Frank Linstead and Margaret Holt Houser, of the estate of George Golden, deceased.

The decision was made by Judge Benjamin Jones of Lake county, sitting here in the absence of Judge Heid, and allowed each of the beneficiaries of the will $1,250 from the cash of the estate.

Women's Prison Lobby Given Federation Women

The State League of Women Voters expects to turn the major part of the responsibility of the women's group campaign for the proposed Tehachapi prison bill over to the California Federation of Women's Cubs. Mrs. Paul Eiel, speaking for the league, said the members would continue their interest in the measure but that the rest of the league's legislative program was so heavy that her organization might be glad to give all of the glory of the Tehachapi contest to the State Federation of Women's Clubs, headed by Miss Josephine Seaman.

The league board voted to support at this session of the legislature an unemployment insurance bill; the reorganiation of the State Socal Welfare department with provision, however, that the present appointee as director be held through to complete her term, whatever changes might be made; the raising of the age of the orphan aid; the reorganization of the State Department of Education, teacher tenure depending on how the tenure bill campaign develops, and the securing for California of federal aid for the employment service.

The league will oppose any control of school budgets by boards of supervisors, will study permanent registration to see it the recently passed bill needs amending, and will take no action in regard to the proposed constitutional amendment.

The board of directors of the league has endorsed the appointment to the board of Mrs. Louis B. Lundborg of Berkeley as treasurer; Mrs. Jose Schoeninger of Carmel, president of the Monterey unit of the league, as director; Mrs. Frank W. Hart of Berkeley as chairman of the department of government and education; Mrs. Richard Sloss of Santa Rosa as chairman of publications, and Mrs. F. F. Barbour of Oakland as chairman of publicity.

Attend Conferences On Highway Gas Tax Changes at Capital

Supervisors Charles Perkins, Orval Tadlock and Charles B. Melville were in Sacramento last week to participate in highway legislative conference called by the Redwood Empire association, when plans were inaugurated for the current session of the legislature.

Among other conferences, the above attended the mobilization meeting of the California Highway Legislative committee, the main objective of which is to set up a statewide campaign to defeat bills introduced, calling for diversion of the gas tax.

The above-named Mendocino men also attended the conference of state senators and assemblymen from San Francisco and northbay counties, called by the Redwood Empire association to discuss gas tax diversion opposition and other legislative bills.

New Bulletin Gives Rules For Passing

Motorists are being reminded by Mendocino county traffic officers that it is unlawful to pass a vehicle on its right side any place but on a city street where there are two or more lanes of traffic going in each direction.

Passing on the right on a state or county highway outside of the incorporated areas is strictly forbidden. "It is always dangerous to pass another car on the right," says a bulletin issued recently by the patrol. Authority to pass on the right of way only on city streets in given in Section 125c of the California Vehicle Act, as follows: "In the event two or more vehicles on a street or highway are moving in the same direction in two or more parallel lines, whether marked or unmarked, upon the right half of the paved portion of a city street having space for two or more lines of traffic in each direction, the provisions of subdivision (a) and (b) of this section shall not be considered as prohibiting the vehicles in one such lane overtaking or passing the vehicles in another such lane either upon the right or the left."

Playground Commission Puts Forward Program For Sports; Council Approves

Prospects for all-year sport activities, under the direction of the city's playground commission, and in direct charge of Coach "Bud" Christensen, were assured Wednesday night, following the regular monthly meeting of the city council, when plans of the commission were explained to the council by Fred Creen and Stanley Watson.

The commission, which has had charge of the Twilight League ball games for the past two seasons, have enlarged on the idea of city-sponsored sports. The program, as outlined to the council, includes twilight ball, baseball, football, basketball and tennis, to follow in their due seasons.

Mr. Creen reviewed the history of the Twilight League and offered as the commission's belief that the addition of other sports could be handled in a way that would make them self-supporting, furnish abundant amusement for the people and be of great good to those who participate.

As to the Twilight League, it is intended to divide that sport into three sections: Girls teams and amateur males, playing the regulation soft ball on Monday and Wednesday evenings, and the experts section, playing regulation baseball on Friday evenings.

For the Monday and Wednesday games no admission will be charged. The Friday games will collect an admission of 10c for all above the Freshmen year. That is, high school freshmen and grammar school pupils, and others of like ages admitted free.

For the football and basketball games a small admission charge will also be collected.

As in past seasons of the Twilight League, surrounding communities will be invited to organize for participation. Trophy awards will be made for the baseball series only.

In reviewing the Twilight games, it was shown that on the few occasions when 10c admission was charged, during the last season, the gate receipts were above $40. This assures the commission that with four paying games a month the receipts will be sufficient to meet all expenses.

As to equipment for the baseball and football players, there is at present sufficient suits, etc., owned by former organizations to fully outfit the players, and these can be had for a very small cost. Admissions to the football and basketball games, likewise assure funds sufficient to take care of expenses and the salary of the coach, during their respective seasons.

The proposition met with the approval of the entire council and it is understood that organization will get under way at once.

Dr. J. H. Hansen, city health officer, volunteered the statement that he would personally attend to any injuries that might occur to participants in any of these sports.

Following the meeting with the city council, Mr. Creen, Mr. Watson and Coach Christensen framed the following rules and regulations for the basketball division, which will get under way at once:

Season starts Monday, February 4, will end the last week in March, and offers opportunities for eight teams to play a round robin tournament. Admission charge: Children, up to and including high school freshmen, free; all others, 15c.

Entry fees of $2.50 per team are payable in advance.

Teams from Ukiah city must be sponsored by civic, fraternal, church or service organizations. Others may represent their districts.

Each team must equip itself with uniforms; the jerseys to be of color distinctive from other teams. The league will furnish balls, officials and gym for games.

Play nights will be Mondays and Wednesdays, the first game to start at 7:15, sharp; the second five minutes from conclusion of first.

Each team is allowed an eligible list of seven players chosen from residents of Ukiah, Hopland or Potter Valley high school districts. Eligible lists may not be altered unless approved by recreational director.

Hop Growers In Two Day Hectic Meeting

Oregon and Washington.

The other calls for levying an assessment of two cents a pound to purchase surplus hops now on hand from former years' crops.

The assessment proposal brought vigorous opposition from legal counsel for eastern brokers and large breweries.

AAA officials in charge of the hearing intimated that such a levy would likely be illegal unless congress amended the agricultural act, or designated hops as a basic commodity.

While the growers of all three states were apparently in favor of such an assessment for surplus control, several prominent growers expressed the belief that purchase of the surplus might not be necessary if the crop control or "saleable tonnage" provisions of the agreement work out as anticipated.

The amendment calling for enlarging the scope of the agreement to cover the United States was offered in the belief that new hop producing areas might develop if production was curtailed on the Pacific coast.

An alternative proposal was taken under advisement, however, that called for Secretary of Agriculture Wallace calling marketing agreement hearings in the future in any such new producing areas that might develop.

A fight developed over representation on the industry control board during the afternoon session, with growers, dealers and brewers disagreeing over how the board's personnel should be divided.

The proposed agreement calls for a board consisting of seven growers and four dealers.

Alfred M. Rose, New York attorney representing eastern hop dealers, argued for a balanced board of seven dealers and seven growers.

"We are asked to become parties to this agreement, and feel that we should have equal representation in its control," he declared.

His claims were assailed by E. Clemens Horst, veteran hop grower and farmers' "Champion."

"We growers have millions of dollars invested in our yards and equipment, and all you dealers need is a typewriter and a little office," he shouted. "There are thousands of growers and a mere handful of dealers, and then you cry 'equal representation!'"

Horst's outburst against the dealers brought such applause and cheers from the assemblage of growers that Dr. Harry C. Cook, presiding officer of the AAA staff in charge of the hearing, had to warn the packed auditorium against any more disturbances.

"We are here to hear from all sides and work out some way to help the growers, and cannot do it if personal antagonism is going to enter the picture," he declared.

Legal counsel acted as spokesmen for both dealers and brewers, several attorneys being sent west from New York for the hearing

Robin E. Day of Oregon; R. E. Ooehlmann of Graton; Mrs. William Chisholm of Santa Rosa; H. Leberge of Washington, and Irving S. Marks of Sacramento, were the principal spokesmen for the growers.

Frank Needham of Oregon explained charts and statistics to the AAA officials, estimating a heavy surplus for the coming season.

Other statistical information on the industry was provided by William C. Ockey and Dallas Smythe, extension service specialists in farm management at the University of California, who prepared the results of a recent survey on the hop industry.

While estimates for the carry-over or surplus of the coming season varied, there appeared to be no question but that some surplus would exist.

The data presented by the growers was closely questioned by Attorney Rose and Norman J. Morrison, attorney for the United States Brewers' association, but little discrepancy was developed.

B. B. Chamberlin, Sacramento grower, and Paul Wolff, attorney representing the Wolff Hop company, also addressed the officials.

An article in the agreement defining all terms used was discussed carefully, with several minor changes suggested in wording and paragraphs.

During the afternoon, Morrison charged that the brewers were being "taxed without representation" under the agreement, pointing out that the industry board had both growers and dealers on it but no brewers.

Day, Oregon grower, said he believed growers would be willing to grant representation to brewers on the board, but would not stand for increased membership of dealers.

Dr. Cook instructed representatives of the brewers, dealers and growers to meet together to see if some satisfactory agreement on the industry board question could not be threshed out among themselves.

One of the most important witnesses at the evening session was T. P. Coates, president of the Production Credit association, affiliated with the Federal Land Bank at Berkeley, discussing the possibility of federal financial aid for development of new hop acreages.

As the success of the entire agreement hinges to a large extent upon keeping production down, growers were keenly interested in Coates' remarks.

Because of the precarious condition of the hop industry, he declared, his credit association would not finance any extension of present hop fields or development of new yards, not even if prices of hops were raised to between 15 and 20 cents a pound.

Another witness at the evening session was Dr. Herman Fleck, San Francisco brewmeister and chemist.

Dr. Fleck testified that it was "exceedingly hazardous" for brewers to purchase hops over two years old if they wanted to make good beer.

His opinion on the quality of older hops was given in connection with discussion of surplus control, tending to show that the old hops now on the market have little if any value.

Highlights of Thursday's arguments were expected to be over expenses of operating the new plan, grading hops, minimum prices, and determination of "saleable tonnage," or crop control.

The large attendance at the hearing made transfer from the Chamber of Commerce hall to the supervisors necessary Wednesday, and the hearing resumed at the courthouse again Thursday.

Aiding Dr. Cook in hearing the testimony are R. H. McDrew, general crops specialist of AAA; Walter Shelf, clerk; Walter Packard, western AAA administrator; Mathew O. Tobriner, attorney, and Robert Allen of the AAA consumers' council.

Among the prominent eastern hop dealers at the hearing Wednesday were John J. Haas of Washington, D. C.; Alfred Seinedberg, of New York; Robert Oppenheim, president of Hugo C. Loewi, Inc., of New York, and Ludwig Lyon of New York.

Large delegations of growers were present from Oregon and Washington, with virtually all of California's leading growers participating.

Latest Studebakers Outstanding in Many New Safety Features

Heralded by nationwide advertising as the "Champions of 1935" and promising the "miracle ride" of motor history, the new Studebakers are here for inspection at the showroom of Forrest Hughes, at State and Clay streets.

There can be no doubt that the new Studebakers are new. Difficult as it is to produce a car that stands out from the rank and file, Studebaker's engineers and designers seem to have created cars of unsual distinction. They are new in styling, in beauty, in comfort, in performance. Motorists have been enthusiastic in their applause of these brand-new offerings of the famous 82-year-old manufacturer.

An engineer, yardsticking the cars in the cold technical manner of his profession, will tell you that the new independent planar wheel suspension is their outstanding feature. A woman will tell you their styling and interior refinement deserves first mention. A safety engineer will applaud their new hydraulic brakes. The man who uses his car in business will place the "miracle-ride" at the head of the cars' virtues.

Studebaker's new, independent planar wheel suspenson and the "miracle-ride" are striking examples of cause and effect. As such, must be linked. The former results in the latter.

The front wheel suspension is new and exclusive to Studebaker. Its result is said to be better and Studebaker newspaper advertisements say "make us prove it."

The individual front wheel suspension has eliminated roll or tipping of the car when turning corners. It has reduced tire howl to a minimum. It also results in precise and confidence-inspiring steering. The rear seat ride has become unusually restful.

Studebaker body designers accomplished the seldomly attained goal of "distinct personality." No other American cars look new, yet beautiful.

The stylists have accomplished a delightful blending of two important units of the car's appearance. The radiators are deep and narrow and are fitted with vertical fins of chronium. The louvers are horizontal and, instead of ending at the forward edge of the hood, continue forward and become a definite part of the front styling.

Brake system are more efficient in operations and give more uniform tire wear if the braking on front wheels is somewhat greater than the braking on the rear wheels. To this end Studebaker engineers have adopted hydraulic brakes and have made the pistons operating the front brake shoes larger than those on the rear brake shoes. All stops are quick yet gradual—there is no pitching passengers against windshields.

The power plants of the new cars have been given new brilliance in keeping with the famous Studebaker slogan of "from the speedway comes their stamina."

LIEURANCE STORES TO BE LIQUIDATED

Old-Established Firm Retires From Business Following Founders' Death

The two Lieurance stores, remaining units of a chain of stores established by Lieurance brothers, following their retirement from the J. C. Penney company, after years of service in executive capacities, will be liquidated.

The Santa Rosa store was sold, last week, to the Baer Mercantile company, a San Francisco firm which specializes in liquidating retail stocks, who it is said, will close out the stock shortly. An inventory was taken last week and the deal consummated immediately after.

The Ukiah branch of the chain, which has been under the management of Rex Lieurance, has this week announced that liquidation is to follow shortly. The store is now closed for inventory.

The Santa Rosa store has been under the active management of Harley Lieurance, brother of the founder, B. H. Lieurance, who was killed several weeks ago by the accidental discharge of a big game hunting rifle in his home in that city.

The third link in the chain, the Lieurance store at Petaluma, was closed about three years ago. At the height of their career, Lieurance establishments were leaders in the mercantile business in the Redwood Empire.

CENSUS TAKERS' MEET

Thomas T. Mathews, federal farm census supervisor of the Second district of California, will be in Ukiah next Monday to conduct a school of instruction for those who have been appointed to the work in Mendocino county. The meeting will be in the courthouse.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE IS AIM OF TURK WOMEN

Princess Tells of the Changes Brought by War.

Chicago.—From harem slavery to the freedom of the ballot box in five swift, tradition-shattering years is the goal of Turkish women.

Princess Lulu Sabry, seventeen-year-old member of a ruling Circassian family, who is a visitor in Chicago, has seen the rapid emancipation of her sex and hopes that by the time she returns the final victory—equal suffrage—will have been achieved.

Educated on the continent and in English schools in her native Stamboul and Constantinople, the princess is a pretty, subdebutante representative of the New Turkey that arose from the war under the leadership of the dictator, Mustapha Kemal Pasha.

Posing in the native costumes of her country, Princess Sabry said:

"The charsaf, or street dress, is fast being discarded for tailored suits, and Paris gowns are replacing the shalvar and other ornate costumes of the harem. English is being taught in the schools and there are a multitude of outward signs of the change in my country.

"But there is a swift change in the moral and social standards. Our women not only dress in the European fashion, but they are thinking that way. The men are gradually learning that we women have a place in the world."

The transition of the minds of the men has been more difficult than of the women, the princess found. It is only with reluctance that they are learning that their wives and daughters are fellow beings with equal rights and not veiled prisoners within harem walls.

Princess Sabry, the daughter of Sabry Bey, a Stamboul journalist, is traveling in this country with Dr. Cosette Faust-Newton, whom she met in Constantinople.

Ornithological Station Seeking Data on Storks

Koenigsberg, Germany.—A computation of the number of storks in East Prussia has been started by the official ornithological station at Rossitten.

Not only all officials, down to the country policeman and letter carrier, but peasants, country school teachers, hikers, lovers of nature, in fact, all the populace, have been enlisted in this countrywide drive to collect full particulars about the mythological purveyor of babies.

Every person is expected to fill in a query sheet furnished by the authorities and to set down conscientiously the number of storks homing on or near his home, the number of young birds, location, age, nature of the nests, etc.

By this method it is hoped to glean much valuable enlightenment on the life of these birds of passage, on their bump of locality, their connubial faithfulness, means of nourishment and other data which the world should know.

"Breeches" Reference Lends Name to Bible

Ventura, Calif.—A rare edition of the famous "breeches" Bible is on display under lock and key in the Pioneer museum here.

Yellowed with age, the ancient book, published in 1583, lies open at the passage from which it was named. The verse reads:

"The eyes of both of them were opened and they knew they were naked and they sewed figge tree leaves together and made themselves breeches."

Volume one of only a few copies passed into circulation before the word "breeches" was discovered. Later issues carried the word "aprons" instead.

Montana Mine, Closed for 60 Years, Reopens

Lyons, Mont.—The Highland Mary mine in southern Madison county, Montana, is again in operation after 60 years of idleness and is yielding rich ore, all because of a snowslide. The location of the rich property had long been forgotten until a huge mass of snow slid down the mountainside, ripping open the tunnel entrance and carrying away debris that had hidden it for more than half a century.

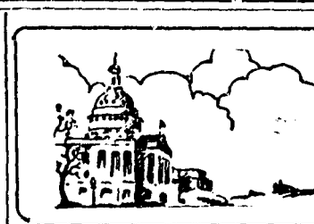
Mother Sparrow Daily Visits Caged Offspring

Chelsea, Mass.—Mother love is strong even among sparrows. A fledgling English sparrow, unable to fly, was found in the yard of Mrs. Anna Smith, and placed in a cage on a third floor piazza. Daily the mother visits her offspring and brings food. Although the cage is not locked, the fledgling sparrow seems content to remain where it is.

Half of Community Made Up of Twins

Portland, Kan. — Twins? Oh, that's nothing in this little wheat country town. Just ask O. B. Hock, the village blacksmith, or anyone else, for that matter. They'll tell you why. Of the town's population of 45, 28 are twins.

Hock boasts two sets himself, boys born consecutively. Two thirds of the town's school enrollment is made up of twins. The Clark family, which lives here and in neighboring communities, claims something of a twin record. It counts 11 sets of them.



LOOKING at WASHINGTON

The 8 to 1 decision of the Supreme court in the "hot oil" case came as a surprise to administration circles, and as a welcome token to those who have strenuously objected to what they call congressional abdication. The court passed on Section 9 (C) of the NRA which "authorized" the president to prohibit the inter-state shipment of oil in excess of state restrictions. Congress did not "direct" the president to do this nor establish any basis for state restrictive laws. Therefore, with no criterion to govern the president's course the court held that congress had transferred too much of its responsibility and that it must determine policies, leaving to the executive arm to act only within the limits so established.

During the early, hectic days of the administration emergency laws went through the legislative hopper speedily although there were those who questioned their constitutionality. That most of them will be given a serious study in the light of the Supreme court decision may be taken for granted. Meanwhile, the AAA and other new deal agencies maintained confidence that the statutes governing their activities contain sufficient declaration of policy and adequate boundaries within the court opinion. Just what effect it will have, other than to serve as a warning in regard to future legislation, is not clear because the presumption is that the present congress will immediately provide new laws to meet the court's decision.

Sometime ago Secretary Wallace had his economic advisor on finance, Gardiner C. Means, to make a study of the NRA and the AAA with a view to clearly understanding the conflicting policies of these emergency agencies. Although intended for private study the report will become a public document in pursuance to a senate resolution introduced by Senator Borah. The expert points out that they are "contradictory and confused" undertakings, and suggests that the remedy is to eliminate monopolies or else bring them under the control of an industrial policy board on which the government as well as economic interests will be represented.

The study points out that modern industrial organization has destroyed the free market and disrupted the operation of supply and demand in many industries. It cites instances where the demand decreased most. Agricultural implements, for example, fell 6 per cent when production was reduced 80 per cent. The conclusion set forth that unless there is a return to free competition to prevent individuals from affecting market prices, there must be some governmental control of existing industrial combinations.

Postmaster General Farley expresses the hope that his next annual report will describe transpacific air transport service, and calls attention to the fact that plans for a transatlantic air service have further advanced. He says that reduction of the air mail postage rate has produced an increasing volume of air mail, that the service now includes more mileage and cities than ever before and that as a result of cancelling the former contracts the average rate of pay per mile is 26:802c compared with an average of 43c a mile prior to annulling the contracts.

He insists that the 3c letter mail rate must be continued to prevent a loss of 75 million dollars per year in revenue. Referring to the debated postal surplus of $12,161,015 for 1934, Mr. Farley says that this compares with deficits ranging from 48 million to 153 million for the previous four years, and that these amounts were arrived at after adjustments for non-postal items authorized by law. These include the air mail subsidy, the ocean mail subsidy, franked and penalty mail.

Attorney General Cummings last week appeared before the Supreme court for the first time since he took office to argue the validity of the present monetary program, and to contend that congress was within its powers in forbiding payments in gold regardless of contracts previously signed. As our readers know almost all bonds, mortgage contracts and other papers provided for payment in gold or its equivalent on demand, but this was abrogated in June, 1923, by a joint resolution of congress. Four cases are before the court involving about 70 million dollars in principal and interest, but the decision of the court, it is expected, will affect payments involved to the amount of hundreds of millions of dollars.

President Roosevelt in his budget message requests $8,520,413,609 for the fiscal year 1936, including a lump appropriation of about four billion dollars to be spent virtually as he pleases. This would mean a deficit of four and a half billion dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1936, and an increase of 3 billion in the national debt, bringing it to a new high record of $34,239,000,000. For ordinary expenses the budget is $3,301,968,125, to which must be added statutory debt retirements of at east $634,434,000. For emergency purposes $4,110,011,475 is for general uses, and $472,000,000 for the AAA. The estimated revenue is expected to be somewhat more than the ordinary expense of the government for the year.

The president did not speculate upon a balanced budget except to point out that such deficit as occurs in 1936 would be due to expenditures to give work to unemployed, and that these would decline "as rapidly as private industry" is able to reemploy those now out of work.

In congress there developed some sentiment against a blanket authorization of the sum requested for relief with Democractic conservatives and Republicans emphasizing the costliness of the program. Labor sympathizers objected to the proposed pay of relief workers at a figure below that of private industry. This was urged by the president in order that those on relief would accept private employment in preference to government work. There seemed to be some sentiment in favor of more definite legislation by congress in regard to the huge relief fund for two reasons: The recent oil decision, and a desire on the part of some legislators for congress to more definitely direct the undertaking.

For national defense the budget requests $489,871,347 for the navy department and $381,050,945 for the war department. These figures represent increases of $186,853,499 and $39,536,523 respectively. Non-military activities of the army, under the corps of engineers, were allowed $50,330,926.

Practically every army branch received an increase. The army will have 12,000 officers, 828 warrant officers, 118,750 enlisted men and 6,415 Phillipine scouts. The Air corps received half of the increased army appropriation, and will purchase 547 new planes during the year, which will give it 1,352 machines, practically all of which will be less than two years of age. Reserve organizations fared well, the National guard getting $30,812,798 and the organized reserve $5,617,674—both being increased more than $1,200,000. The Reserve Officers Training corps gets $3,323,246, a slight increase, and the Citizens Military Training camps about the same as last year.

The navy would be given 11,000 additional men, bringing the total strength to 93,500 to provide personnel for vessels under construction. $22,500,000 is provided for new air craft, $12,500,000 for planes for new carriers and $140,000,000 for the construction of naval vessels. This includes $48,000,000 to complete vessels authorized before 1929, $60,000,000 to continue work on twenty vessels started the present fiscal year, and $32,000,000 to begin twenty-four vessels during the 1936 fiscal year. These new ships will include a 14,500 ton air craft carrier, two six-inch gun cruisers, 3 destroyer leaders, 12 destroyers, and 6 submarines. For maintenance and operating purposes the 1936 estimate amounts to $308,689,096.

The reader should of course understand that the items and amounts set forth above are the requests contained in the budget, which may or may not be appropriated by congress. The chances are, however, that most of them will be in line with the estimates.

NOTE:—In the above tabulation of the tides the daily tides are given in the order of their occurence, commencing with the early morning tides in the left hand column and the succeeding tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur, the fourth occuring on the following morning.

The column of heights gives the elevation of each tide above or below the level of the Coast Survey chart soundings. The numbers are always additive to the chart depth.

The data is practically the same for Point Arena Light, Navarro River Entrance, Little River Harbor, Mendocino Bay and Fort Bragg Landing. For Westport subtract 5 minutes from the time and for Shelter Cove add 0.8 ft. to high tide.

CALIFORNIA'S PUBLIC MENACE NO. 1

The guns of the California press just now are leveled at the drunk driver, who is rapidly looming as the state's chief menace to life and limb. There are few newspapers that do not carry some allusion to the situation and few editorial pages that are not devoting considerable space to the problem.

Overnight, it seems, the drunk driver has assumed the aspect of a major problem for law enforcement officers, and officials everywhere, and those who have to do with meting out punishment to the guilty, apparently are burning midnight oil in efforts to devise penalties, not to fit the crime, but which will act as a deterrent. Heavier fines and longer jail sentences are being given offenders. Revocation of driving licenses, and in some instances, impounding the offender's car has been resorted to in the search for a penalty that will strike terror to the hearts of all who might come before the court for a like offense. One judge has gone so far as to assess a victim's hospital bill against the offending driver.

Here in Mendocino county, happily, we have as yet no great cause for concern; howbeit, it is bad enough. It is true that the records of the Superior court are scarcely ever clear of such charges, and many are under probation at this time. But our courts are not cluttered up with a preponderance of drunk driving cases, as appears to be the case in other sections.

Considerable credit for our happy situation can be given to the manner in which our highway patrol goes about the business of enforcing the rules and regulations. Captain Austin Rawles' statement, made about a month ago, that offenders against the laws of the road would be brought to judgment, regardless of rank or station, evidently has borne good fruit. During the Christmas week, when 17 citations were issued here, one man was found driving while under the influence of liquor. New Year week citations were conspicuous by their absence, and things have been quiet along our highways ever since.

Such cases as have reached the Superior court in recent months have come through with reminders that it is better to be sober than be sentenced.

The drunk driver has been with us always—since the days of the horse and buggy, and before. He is simply a greater menace now than ever before, and there are more of him, and the matter of meeting the increased threat has been complicated by the ratio of his increase.

To the impractical mind it appears that finally it will become necessary to have established a checking system, whereby every person who has been convicted of drunk driving shall be checked in and out of town, to see that he comes in and goes out sober, and that he has not the ammunition tucked away on his person that can get him drunk along the highway. An especially designed license plate for such offenders would enable officers everywhere to pick them out and investigate. Or a checking station, where all such shall report, would afford the necessary medium for determining the degree of their ability to navigate the highways without disasterous results.

There is nothing imaginary about the seriousness of the situation, and the fact that the people of the state have aroused suddenly to a high pitch of indignation, makes it look dark for the person who flirt with fate in this manner, and makes of himself a potential instrument for destruction of life.

If all else fails, there is yet the rock pile and the chain gang; and the whipping post. Crude methods of less refined generations, perhaps, but effective, no end.

KEEP MONEY MOVING IN UKIAH

There is enough money in Ukiah to serve the commercial needs of all our people. Turned over fast enough, and passed from one citizen to another, there is enough to make all our people prosperous.

Every time a dollar kisses this community good-bye it goes to help the prosperity of other sections. While some of our coin has to go, there are many occasions when the money could stay in Ukiah with equal benefit to the spender and positive profit to the merchants here, who depend upon the local market for support.

No outside firm pays taxes in Ukiah. They do not contribute to our charities, neither do they employ our unemployed. If the people of this town will only make up their minds to be loyal to themselves in spending their money it will mean a greater future for all.

It might have been an accident, but it had all the earmarks of a dirty plot, when a recent San Francisco Sunday edition showed a pictorial page of society matrons "Skilled in the culinary art," and the first picture was of Mrs. Soandso, demonstrating a handy can opener.

Now that the Home-Owned Merchants are practically 100 percent organized in Ukiah, perhaps, with three first class local bakeries as members, we can just as well dispense with bread baked in San Francisco.

WRITES PRIZE WINNER

The California Redwood association's award of $25 worth of redwood for the best letter on "How I Would Use Redwood in Building or Improving My Home" went to C. H. Hinds of Ukiah. The award was given in a contest conducted over KGO by the association in their "Redwood Reveries."

College of Pacific To Play Ukiah A's

Tomorrow night at the high school gymnasium the high school A team will engage the Freshmen team from the College of the Pacific, Stockton, in a pre-league game of basketball.

After numerous easy wins for Coach Christensen's basketeers, the Pacific boys loom as the first real contenders for a possible win over the high school A's. The Pacific team are all seasoned high school men, with their prep experience to pit against the local aggregation, and fans can see some real snappy work tomorrow night.

The preliminary game will be between the high school B's and the Ukiah Ramblers, a kind of a "masked marvel" combination, not yet seen.

Admissions are 20c for students and 35c for the mob.

Permanent 4-H Camp Is To Be Set Up On Ridgewood Property

A portion of the state university's demonstration forest, located on the Ridgewood ranch, just off the Redwood highway and about 15 miles north of Ukiah, will shortly be turned into a permanent 4-H camp and made available for the use of public gatherings.

County Farm Advisor C. S. Myszka advises the Dispatch-Democrat that through the action of the university regents, members of the Willits CCC camp will begin work at once to lay out the grounds and make such improvements as necessary to create an ideal spot for 4-H use.

This work will include replanting of trees which failed to develop in the university's original demonstration. Four permanent camp stoves with concrete bases will be installed and six camp tables built. A road into the grounds will be constructed and a rustic arch built at the entrance, with a plaque to the Mendocino 4-H clubs.

The water supply will be developed from springs, which is said will be sufficient for all uses. A truck trail will be provided, which will require that three-tenths of a mile of new trail be built and four-tenths mile of old trail improved.

Eventually, it is hoped to provide a swimming pool from the natural resources. With a moderate amount of work it is said a pool of 20 feet of water, 100 yards long can be provided by impounding the runoff of the springs in a canyon.

The site of the proposed camp is ideal for the purpose and when completely improved and equipped will afford every facility for 4-H gatherings and for other recreational purposes.

The grounds will be dedicated to the Mendocino County 4-H clubs.

District Council of 20-30 Club Meet in Santa Rosa Jan 19

Ukiah will send eight delegates to the District Council meeting of 20-30 Clubs, which will convene in Santa Rost, Saturday, January 19. The local delegations will consist of K. K. Killen, president, Bob Harmon, Ferdinand Valette, Rudy Nouman, Joseph Trimeloni, Pete Simoncini, Loren Devee and Donald York. It is probable that more local members will attend the meeting, than this designated list.

Delegates from Ukiah, Eureka, Arcata, Fortuna, Crescent City, Saint Helena, Napa, Vallejo, Petaluma and Sebastopol will join the Santa Rosa clubmen for the conference, which will be held in the Occidental hotel. A business session and entertainment are planned by the host club.

A district council meeting will be held at 6:30 p. m. at which Herman Pagendorm of Saint Helena, district governor, will preside. This council session will be followed by a banquet and the regular district membership meeting, starting at 7:30.

The Santa Rosa club will be host to the visiting delegates, and are preparing to receive at least 100 visitors.

Arabian Stallion Is Offered This County For Free Breeding

Owners of saddle mares can secure for themselves the advantage of free breeding, if enough mares can be secured to meet the requirements of the government's offer.

County Farm Advisor C. S. Myszka is advised that a thoroughbred Arabian stallion from the army post in Arizona can be made available for use in this county if 25 mares, which meet the government requirements as to breeding, can be found.

The horse will not be brought into the territory for service of less than 25 mares, and there are already quite a number registered. All that is required is to bring the number up to the minimum. The maximum is 50.

Persons interested should get into touch with Mr. Myszka, who, as soon as the required registration is made, will file his application.

SOLONS FIGHT SHY OF DIRECT TAXES

Advalorem Property Levy Will Be Made Only as Last Resort to Raise Funds

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

No ad valorem tax!

Such, if present signs and portents are correct, will be the dictum of the 1935 state legislature.

And to California agriculture, which has borne the brunt of the tax burden for years past, it is a development of the most vital significance.

To the farmer, the home-owner, the business man—and common property owners generally—it means escape from at least $60,000,000 in additional taxation durng the coming two years.

But beyond that, in fundamental importance, it means that there is a new recognition on the part of California lawmakers of the inequalities of the old tax system which looked to real estate for the major support of governmental functions.

The present trend in the legislature if it may be taken as a criterion, is definitely against a state property tax, despite the fact that the legislators are face to face with a desperate need of new taxe sources to raise approximately $100,000,000 in additional revenues for the coming biennium.

There is, to be sure, no guarantee that an ad valorem, or direct state property tax, will not be levied to offset the loss in state revenues, which will result if utility properties are returned to local tax rolls this year, as provided in the second part of the Riley-Stewart tax relief plan, but there is, on the other hand, a definite indication in the legislature that the ad valorem levy will be used only as a last resort.

And there is every probability that the lawmakers, conscious of the unpopularity of a direct property tax, will find other means of raising needed revenues.

By broadening the tax base, the return of utility properties to the counties for tax purposes should, in most instances, effect a material reduction in taxes on farm property and other real estate. But an ad valorem tax, if it shoud be imposed, would not only wipe out this saving, but would probably cancel at least part of the reduction achieved in property taxes under the first part of the Riley-Stewart plan, which transferred school costs to the state.

Even more dangerous is the fact that a tax once imposed is exceedingly difficult to remove and usually mounts in rate, when new revenues are needed.

Bearing on the whole problem of property taxation, the National Real Estate association has recently gone on record in favor of "an over-all tax limitation on real estate"—a proposal which would limit the total taxes to be levied in one year against any piece of property by state, county and muncipal taxing units to a fixed percentage of the true value.

Seven states, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, West Virginia, Okahoma, New Mexico and Washington, already have adopted the over-all tax limitation, with the limitation running from 1 to 2 per cent of true values in any one year.

And the California Real Estate association, while not definitely committed to the program as yet, is urging serious study of the property tax limitation set-up in California. In support of the system, it calls attention to the fact that property taxes have decreased approximately 23 per cent in the states which have initiated the over-all limitation.

Any program of this nature requires the most careful scrutiny and study, but it is at least a hopeful sign that the farmer and the general property owner, after years of excessive taxation, seem to have enlisted the sympathetic interest of tax-levying agencies.

California farmers have long shouldered an exorbitant share of the tax burden and the new disposition toward spreading the load is of tremendous importance. To the farmer, relief from oppressive taxation will do more to speed recovery than any other single factor.

Talmage Man Passes; Buried Last Tuesday

Funeral services were hed last Tuesday afternoon in the Eversole Mortuary for William Von Howell of Talmage. Burial was in the Ukiah cemetery with the Veterans of Foreign Wars in charge of the rites. Rev. Claude F. Mosher, minister of the Baptist church, officiated at the mortuary serves.

Von Howell was a native of Napa, 56 years old and a veteran of the Spanish American war. He was a retired business man, whose health had been failing for the past year. His wife and daughter are the only local relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Brunner of San Rafael are guests in the home of Mrs. Mary Kaufman, who is Mrs. Brunner's sister. The Brunners are former residents of this city, Mr. Brunner being engaged in the hardware business.

Fruit Growers Meet and Revise Compact On Deciduous Fruit

Mendocino county was represented by Orval Tadlock, prominent fruit grower, at the meeting in Sacramento this week of growers and shippers, when amendments to the fresh deciduous tree fruit agreement were approved and forwarded to Washington for action.

Under the proposed new setup, the responsibility for operating the agreement will rest mainly with the growers. Provision has been made for every grower in the state to have a vote in the selection of the Control and Commodity committee members. New methods of control of shipments are made optional with the Commodity committees, in the proposed amendments. These include the rail concentration control, such as was used last year for Bartlett pears and the limitation of shipment of fruit by size and grade. The latter provision is designed to reduce the general problem of control by eliminating poor fruit, and is a provision that both growers and shippers have sought since last spring. Control of shipments within California, as well as out of the state, would be optional with the committees.

The general grower committee, headed by W. P. Darsie of Walnut Grove, and representing every fruit growing section of the state, prepared most of the amendments. This committee, the members of which were selected by the local grower committees elected last year, has been working on the changes since October 1.

The general grower committee proposals were accepted, with slight changes, by the executive committee of the Tree Fruit Agreement which represents shippers who in 1934 shipped 84% of the tree fruits out of the state.

R. W. Gray, manager of the agreement, has not yet been advised as to the date for the public hearing on these proposals, but thinks it will be held in Sacramento early in February. The hearing is to give all interested growers and shippers an opportunity to express themselves regarding the new setup.

MENDOCINO NATIVE DEAD

He was 50 years old and is survived by his aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Lopes. He was a graduate of the Mendocino schools and spent his life as an employe of the lumbering concerns. Interment was in the Catholic cemetery, with Father Garlath Gough officiating.
